VULCAN SCHOOL FINAL EXAMINATION RESULTS

LOOKING at the NEWS with Col. Hugh Clark

In some cities the civic employees have a union so strong that aldermen have to sit up and take notice. The poor old ratepayers not being organized have to sit back and take tax notices.

If you wish to be generous, say that the New Jersey police are zealous but inept and unfortunate.

The Republican selection of President Hoover and the framing of a platform, was the work of President Hoover himself through the administrative machine which he controls. No one else has a look-in if a President wishes a second term. The platform so far as it covers the prohibition issue is a skilful attempt to do what he did four years ago—to hold or gain Democratic drys without losing Republican wets. Two words enabled him to do this in 1928. When he referred to the Volstead act as a "noble experiment," the drys saw the word "experiment" and he took both into camp. It was the wets who were deceived. Time alone will tell whether they will gain anything by his new policy of re-submission, but it looks now as if he has disappointed the drys while antagonizing the repealists in his own party, whose delegates went home disgruntled from the cut-and-dried preponderance at Chicago.

A scientist says man was originally jelly. Hasn't changed much in some cases.

While it lasted, the slump of 1920 was no slouch. A salesman wired his house, "Cancel immediately all orders sent in last week." The reply was, "Can't cancel immediately. You will have to wait your turn."

The Democrats are now trying to outdo their political opponents in framing an agreeable platform and in displays of enthusiasm for their candidate. The exhibition of Republican enthusiasm was a disappointment. It lasted twenty-seven minutes, but it was a labored effort supplemented by devices for noise-making and for theatrical effects. Parading through the aisles, snatching (or snitching) standards, cheering, shouting, howling—all to impress the public, and deceiving no one except themselves. The system is organized. But real enthusiasm is spontaneous. The manufactured article is a pale counterfeit. It sounds tinny, tastes synthetic and looks silly.

At a recent denominational convention, it was reported that many clergymen are in the unhappy position of not being able to meet their obligations on the meagre stipends they now receive, and a proposal was made that ministers receiving $2,000 or more should contribute a tenth to help out their less fortunate brethren. There is a shrinkage in congregational and general contributions, and church authorities are experiencing the same difficulty as governments in balancing their budgets because the depression plays few favorites, and when it hits the pew it hits the pulpit.

Memorial Services by Oddfellows' Lodge

The annual community memorial service directed by the Samaritan lodge, I.O.O.F. and assisted by Clover Leaf Rebekah lodge was somewhat spoiled by the tremendous downpour of rain on Sunday last, but the program at the Vulcan theatre was carried out in splendid style, the graveside rites having to be postponed.

The members of both lodges assembled at the I.O.O.F. hall at 2:15 p.m. and paraded to the theatre to accompany the march music by the Vulcan citizens' band.

At the theatre a very impressive service was held. The program opened by the massed singing of "Lead, Kindly Light" led by the band; this was followed by a prayer by R. J. Deans. Addresses were delivered by Rev. J. N. Brunton, N. E. Todd and R. J. Deans, intermingled with well rendered musical selections as follows: "Land of Hope and Glory," by Miss R. Hartwig; "Only a Shadow Between," by Miss B. Walker and Mrs. T. Mutz, and "Come Unto Me" by Miss A. Tuttle and Mr. R. H. Weale. At the close of the address by R. J. Deans, the entire congregation joined in the singing of "Abide With Me" led by the band. The benediction pronounced by Rev. J. N. Brunton, closed the proceedings.

Miss Beulah Walker and Miss Helen Simington were the accompanists with the musical numbers.

CHARLES CLARK, Proprietor

CONFERENCE LOOMS

For the next few weeks, all citizens will be absorbed in the progress of the Economic Conference. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, once spoke of "hinging open the windows of diplomatic negotiations," so that no secrecy need keep the world in ignorance of the actual negotiations.

It is hoped that candor will prevail at Ottawa, and that machinations and manipulations will not prevail. Possibly Western Canada is more deeply concerned than any other part, in some definite outcome. While, this does not necessarily mean a preference for wheat, it means a preference on other farm products, such as livestock, butter, bacon, poultry and so on. If the British market were thrown open to these products, the result would benefit agricultural areas, the Dominion over, it is not expected that undue emphasis will be laid on wheat, as Britain at the best could take only a proportion of our exportable wheat, and the result of preference in this product, might jeopardize its chance in other quarters.

Great Britain has evidenced a willingness to consider a preference to farm products, but in return she would expect a greatly increased market for manufactures.

It is this question which causes rural Canada greatest anxiety. It is not known what the attitude of Canadian manufacturers will be. They have enjoyed a complete protection for many a year, while the farm products on which the majority depend, have faced continually the open competition of the world.

If the concessions are granted to farm products, it will undoubtedly mean a certain sacrifice on the part of manufacturers. If however, they press the claims of their products, there will be no stimulation of trade for any part of Canada. Until the buying power of the farms is restored or promoted, there is little hope for acceleration in the industrial lines. And if the buying power of the prairies, B.C. and rural Eastern Canada is revived, the manufacturers will benefit, directly and at once.

The four Western provinces are united in asking a free entry of goods from other parts of the Empire in order that our products may move out. Linked up with this is a request for stabilized Empire currency, in order that uniform values may prevail.

If however, the manufacturing interests of Canada exert too heavy an influence, or insist on pressing their claims, there will be little of benefit realized by any part of Canada.

DRUGGED DEMOCRACY

There is a lesson to all nations in the following editorial in the Montreal Witness:

"General John Pershing, the Commander of the United States armies on the fields of France, has spoken boldly to his own people. He is a soldier, a man of action, whose words are few, whose deeds have been many. He has repeatedly shown that he is a man of moral courage who does not hesitate to speak the challenging word and to follow it by the worthy deed. It is unnecessary that one should agree with all his opinions, nor much less endorse all his illustrations in order to rejoice in the main truth at which he aims.

"Certainly, in his speech to his own nation only the other day, his words, like bullets ringing on a target, challenged citizens to face the reality of a decadent democracy and its perils. The United States, he says, in short, is only the pretense of a democracy, for it refuses to shoulder responsibilities and to discharge duties. Only a half of its citizenship troubles itself enough to go to the polls. It permits the highest interests to suffer through default and sacred causes to be defeated through sheer supineness. It does not respect its own laws. It permits its affairs to be manipulated by paltry politicians and its cities to be terrorized by crooks. It is so money-ridden that it adds neither time nor desire to care for the things that make a country great and save it from the plundering hands of scheming self-seekers. It fails to raise up, and stand by, true leaders whose one concern is for the high cause and whose whole effort seeks a country's good. And so by the inevitable consequences of neglect, or by the inexorable law of sowing and reaping, things are in a serious mess. In the land that champions 'self-determination' and boasts of its bold experiment in 'government of the people, by the people, for the people,' democracy is exploited by a plutocracy, and, unless it repents, is doomed to disaster. It is suffering grievously now and only a baptism of moral thoughtfulness can save it from the catastrophe to which it is now drifting.

Well is it that General Pershing should speak boldly to his own people; there is always hope for a country that has a prophet and a chance for a people that will turn at his rebuke. Certain it is that there is much searching of heart among thousands in the United States, and we can leave them with their soldier-prophet and their many anxieties. May they learn and repent before it is too late for their great land and for the world, for the present condition of the United States is seriously affecting all other nations."

THE LOST TRIBE

A transient was sent to jail for a month the other day for attacking a constable who told 30 transients to "keep going."

The sentence was imposed, of course, because he attacked an officer and such attacks cannot be tolerated if we are to maintain order in this country. It is interesting, however, to speculate upon the man's indignation at being told to "keep going."

It is the wish of every municipality in the Dominion that all transient unemployed who come within their boundaries shall "keep going" until they get out of them again. In other words, our problem would be partially solved if the transient unemployed of Canada kept going until they all went into the Pacific or the Atlantic. Humanity forbids that anyone should make the suggestion, but the unvoiced thought is an inevitable accompaniment of the fact that no city, town or village of Canada wants these men to stay.

Add to this the fact that certain producers would benefit if present stores of their products were destroyed, and we have some conception of the amazing contradictions of these times. There are people in need of goods which are rotting in storage; there are great areas in need of ultimate settlement and great projects which will produce a huge demand for labor, and there are men who are condemned by immediate necessities to "keep going."

For two years the nomads have been wandering and they have somehow snatched a living from the country. They will continue to wander and will continue to snatch a living from the country—while the bitterness wells and the rift between him who has and him who has not becomes bigger and bigger—until the Dominion Government takes responsibility out of the hands of local authorities and organizes the transients so that they may enjoy at least a vestige of security.

The cost to the country would eventually be the same, although the government would have to make up for the thousands of dollars which are today expended promiscuously by Canadian citizens in casual donations on street corners and at the doors of their houses.—Morning Albertan.

HEALTH SERVICE

In this week's issue of the Advocate, there appears a concise though incomplete statement of the work completed by the Okotoks-High River Health Unit during its past year of operation. Those who read it will have been surprised at the extent of the field covered. From time to time one may hear criticism of the value of the Health Service on the ground that it does not immediately step in and remedy all detected defects, or at any rate, all that might not otherwise be remedied.

This, of course would be an ideal condition. If everyone who could not afford to pay for the correction of some remedial defect in his child, could be assured that the case would be treated free of charge, the general standard of health would doubtless be raised.

But such a service would be a very advanced stage of paternalism on the part of district or state, and would open up a vast field of complications. To be effective it would have to be dominion wide, or at any rate, province wide. It would tremendously increase taxation, and at present there are great differences of opinion on the extent to which paternalism should be carried in the interests of individual initiative.

The Model Health Unit is an advance toward better health conditions, instituted at a minimum of cost. And it is well to consider that a complete service of treatments and operations, etc. would require a tremendously increased staff.

What has the Health Service as it exists, actually done to improve health conditions? It gave 3000 toxoid inoculations against diphtheria. This alone would have cost $3000. Yet the total cost of the Health service to this district is just $2500.

There have been no serious outbreaks of communicable diseases. Isolated cases of scarlet fever have appeared, but they have been admirably controlled. This control has no doubt, saved individual families indirectly, large sums of money.

The recognition of incipient T.B. amongst children is of greatest value. Treatment in early stages is not difficult, and is usually effective. It is of benefit to the entire area to have these tendencies toward T.B. caught in initial stages, and carefully watched as is being done.

The sanitary department included in the service safeguards the public in the matter of food stuffs, of dairies, drinking water, etc. These services, if not included under the Health Unit, would be much more costly. The laboratory at the office in High River is now able to test milk and water. It can satisfy the public that the nutritive standards of dairies are being maintained and can pass on the purity of any water supply.

It has been of very real value to expectant mothers and the mothers of infants in the ready distribution of all literature.

It keeps a complete check on the health conditions throughout the entire area, and eventually from year to year, the standards of health should be very greatly advanced. There are many of its services in a very great deal of clinics, life extension and so on, of which the people do not avail themselves as freely as they might.

But any service which gives thorough examination to thousands of its citizens, especially the younger citizens, when provides free immunization, follows up its work with home visits, checks outbreaks of scarlet fever, typhoid and so on, makes hundreds of visits in the interests of sanitation and public protection, accomplishes a very great deal for the district, and is busy in its every department.

TOWN'S FIRST PAPER

(From the High River Times)

It will be noticed that this issue of The Advocate is liberally sprinkled with clippings from the town's first newspaper, the High River Eye Opener of the spring of 1902. The late Lob Edwards on March 30, 1902, christened his paper, enlivening, snacking and entertaining the citizens of the date. His sojourn was brief, and it is not too much to suspect that it was hectic.

It is difficult to convey to those who knew not Bob Edwards, just why he should have gained such a hold upon the affections of old timers. Judged by rigid standards of conforming citizenship, he may have lacked much. But on the other hand, no one could compare with him as an honest, fearless fighter against injustice, exploitation and swank. His trenchant pen was turned upon hypocrisy and dishonesty and slickers. The high-powered sales rackets of these days, the sovereignty of moneyed powers would have been a challenge to his continual regard for the rights of small people. He was a lovable man, a grand fighter and the power of his pen has never been surpassed in this country.

It was a high and happy moment when these first issues of the High River Eye Opener were placed in our hands. In his bow to the public on March 4, he establishes himself as an advocate of High River, in these words:

"This town is the focal point in the growth of an immense district, and the birthplace of the greatest newspaper ever produced between Nanton and the milepost this side of Okotoks.

"Then there is the scenery. The view toward the West is worthy of attention for its pure and stately beauty. The rugged mountain range stretches toward the south like the teeth of a gigantic saw that needs fling. The climatic conditions need no explaining away. From the hotel you can stand and drink in mountain air and booze with equal facility. Of an evening a loveliness lies upon the western sky as though some wondrous flower were showing itself for Mr. Braden's approval at the fall fair; a perfect color scheme of red and pale pink for pale people laid upon a groundwork of noble mountain peaks, streaks of gold pouring upwards from the disappearing sun 'How does that strike you?'

"In promoting the interests of High River, it is essential that we act in peace, unity and concord. Let us hang together just now. Some of us may have to hang separately later."

HOW LONG A WAIT

A news service digs up a papyrus hand bill which was circulated in Egypt exactly 5,000 years ago—viz., 3068 B.C., which it offers (in free translation) as follows:

"A few lawless men are depriving the land of sovereignty. The laws are defied and men tread them under feet. The law-breaker is the possessor of wealth, while the rich man has lost everything. There is scarcity of gold. The skilled craftsman is without work. The man who reaps the harvest gets nothing for it, and he who did the plowing does not secure the profit. The land is depleted. There are more rulers than ever. I show you a land turned upside down."

But "shortly thereafter" the news service says, "Egypt entered upon a period of unprecedented prosperity."

We should have chapter and verse for this document and a literal translation. Assuming, however, its authenticity and the integrity of its translation, there is comfort in its contemplation, especially when one reads in connection with it the first few verses of Quotheth to be found in the book of Ecclesiastes. There is nothing new under the sun, and if that which shall be is that which hath been, the sun will shine again some day, and, as Virgil says, per haps at some future time it will be pleasant to recall these things.—Weyburn Review.

BOW RIVER CONFERENCE

Constituency Conference U.F.W.A.
Includes Milo, Kirkdale, Reid Hill

The Bow River constituency, which consists of Milo, Kirkdale, Reid Hill, Sunset and Arrowwood locals of the U.F.W.A. held their conference on Friday, June 24 in the Church of the Brethren at Arrowwood. About eighty delegates and friends attended the afternoon session. In the morning the attendance was slightly less.

Mrs. Warr, provincial president of the U.F.W.A. since 1929, was present at the conference, and gave a most interesting address in the afternoon. The subject spoken on was "Political Economy and the Economic Situation of Today." She made note of the growing interest in U.F.W.A. work and stated that this year there are far more members than in previous years. She also pointed out the deficiency in our banking system and that of the gold standard, or gold as a means of exchange. She says that in times of war money could be and would be voted almost instantly to avoid disaster, but when the crisis is one of unemployment the money is not forthcoming as readily.

In concluding Mrs. Warr said that she hoped the ladies would have a display of handicraft at the next convention. Everyone was glad to welcome Mrs. Warr to the conference and were pleased that she could stop here on her way from Winnipeg.

Two resolutions were brought in from Berrywater local. The first was that an examination in practical music should be allowed to substitute for an optional subject in the High School course as well as one in theory, as a child in a rural district very seldom has a chance to study theory.

The second resolution was that education might be carried on by correspondence. That in order to keep up the standard of education a student would be allowed to get part of his or her High School education by correspondence, as many parents cannot afford to send their children to town schools.

A report was given from the Milo local by Mrs. Steve Williams. She gave a most interesting account of a system for exchange of wheat for apples with the British Columbia fruit growers.

The morning program was opened with the singing of O Canada.

Address of welcome, Mrs. Buckley; duet, Mrs. M. Henry and Mrs. C. Journey; report of junior U.F.A. activities, Mrs. J. C. MacLeod; reading, Gladys Leonard.

A delicious dinner was served in the basement of the church. About 50 persons sat down to the well laden tables.

At 1:30 p.m. the meeting was reopened with community singing. A report was given from each of the locals present. Reading, "Value of Friends," Mrs. Shatto; address, Mrs. Warr; quartette, Mrs. Lewendson, Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. H. Brown accompanied by Mrs. O. Larson; piano solo, Mrs. Parnell.

Everyone then went to the basement where afternoon tea was served. The U.F.W.A. wish to thank the elders of the Church of the Brethren for the use of the building all day Friday.

SOUTH VALLEY EXTINGUISHED

Long and strenuous fight against gas conservation in Turner Valley ended Monday morning as oil operators accepted the inevitable and closed in their wells.

Throughout the entire south end of the field not a flicker of a flame proclaimed gas wastage. For the first time in six years—the history of Turner Valley as a naphtha producing field—the dozens of flares which have constituted the greatest tourist spectacle in Western Canada, were extinguished.

Threat of the government authorities to take over the Hylo lease unless Hylo No. 1, large wet gasser was closed in at once, had its desired effect. Officials of the Hylo-Syndicate and Oil Company capitulated at 10 o'clock Monday morning, and agreed to shut in their well.

Hylo officials had contended that serious damage might be wrought to their big producers if the gas flow were suddenly shut in. This view however, was not supported by engineers of the Turner Valley Conservation Board and an ultimatum was issued.

Even under conservation, the Hylo syndicate will reap a well deserved reward for its perseverance and courage in drilling their well to naphtha production in the face of many adversities. The Hylo well, which was located by Russell Johnson, Calgary geologist, has an exceedingly wet gas flow, just as has the Merland well, also located by Mr. Johnson. Consequently even under a restricted gas flow a very fair amount of naphtha should be produced daily, officials of the company believe.

The present tests under the supervision of the Turner Valley gas board provide for the closing in of well in the south end of the field for 2 hours and gradual release of gas during a subsequent 48 hour period. The gas board will then determine the gas allowance and naphtha production allowable for each well in the area.

Rochester, who dealt with the brokerage firm for more than two years, is by this judgment returned every dollar he ever invested with Solloway Mills & Co. He is also allowed interest at 5 per cent from December 19, 1929.

The amount of $20,821 profits received at various times on the transactions, is to be returned to the company.

Rochester brought action to have a release he had previously signed to the company set aside and an account taken. The assistant master finds that the company's operations indicated general "bucketing" and specifically in at least one of the Rochester transactions.

wounded the Ojibway Indians to produce a riverside version of "Hiawatha".

A survey of the Wolf Week programme reveals a combination of sentiment and excitement. Governor Roosevelt of New York State has presented the citizens with a British flag taken by the U. S. troops when they burned the Sault in 1814. The flag will be hoisted with appropriate ceremonies. The excitement comes in when the visitors will be invited to amuse themselves running the Sault Rapids in canoes, attending Algoma Wolf Club dinners, and sympathizing with the unlucky winner of a bear, which animal, Jim Curran proposes to raffle in lieu of one of his beloved wolves. The Algoma Self-Denial Club has added three pleasant features to the programme. The members of this club never deny themselves anything, and they advise that there are no peevish cops in the Sault; that their city is only an overnight ride from Toronto on the Canadian Pacific's homeliest train, and that they still serve cheese with the apple pie in the Sault, which Jim Curran says is built beside Lake Superior in the great Algoma forest, near the timber wolves.

town in Canada, and that respectable strangers will be welcome. Plug hats will not be practical headgear during Wolf Week at the Sault. This is a warning, and is understandable at a show where the background is totally composed of timber wolves, Hudson Bay Barbecues, Indians and whalers. Jim Curran and his fellow-citizens of the friendliest town have cornered the world's best professional long distance swimmers for some real racing, and have per-
